

Sunday School LESSON

By William A. Oliver, D. D.
As never before in modern times, we are all of us thinking of Christianity in terms of world-wide mission and need. Some of us have always so thought of Christianity, and have emulated the example of the early Christian Church, and have sought to take literally the commission of Jesus to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.

They have been concerned chiefly about their own doorsteps.

Now, however, Protestants have awakened to a consciousness of world-wide fellowship, mission, and purpose, such as the Roman Catholic Church has long manifested. This is emphasized in the World Council of Churches, and in the World Communion which is celebrated on a Sunday in October.

It is worth-while to point out that this newly found ecumenicity—a big word meaning broadly "all inclusive"—is as yet largely outward and organizational, through motivated by an earnest spirit, it is based on limitations and compromise, which in their very nature are un-ecumenical, and which some sincere Christians have been unable to accept.

But great progress has been made since the days of the early conferences, only a few years ago, looking toward a world faith and order, when the delegates were unwilling or unable, to share in a common communion service.

To me that has always seemed a triumph of churchianity over Christianity, for if these delegates had been Christians first, and churchmen secondarily, the most normal, natural, and Christian thing in the world would have been to begin with communion in the name and spirit of Christ.

It is in individual Christian lives deeply devoted to the master, seeking His presence and guidance in manifesting His spirit in daily living, and in all life's relationships, that the quality and power of the churches and their world-wide movement ultimately depend.
This world-wide organization, consciousness, and purpose has come at a crucial time when Christianity in many parts of the world is confronted with powers of destruction and persecution such as one would never have thought possible in the world of today. Conditions such as early Christians had to meet in the catacombs of Rome are not unknown in many parts where the outward worship and organization of the church has been suppressed.
Survival depends upon the quality of the faith and life of individual Christians, perhaps as never before in our time. But this is true not only of those in such dire situations. The strength, power, and survival of Christianity depends upon the Christian faith and living of every professed follower of Jesus.
A Christian life, lived faithfully from day to day, is the best contribution that you and I can make to the world's organization and the world's needs.

Ailing Petain Leaves Prison

Port-Joinville, Ile D'you, French June 26 (AP)—Ailing Petain, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, was transferred from the prison at Fort De La Pierre-Leve today to a private mansion here.

Petaim, head of the Nazi-sponsored Vichy government during World War II, received a commutation June 17 because of his age. The marshal had been condemned to life imprisonment for his wartime collaboration with the Germans.

He rode the mile and one quarter distance from the prison to his new home in a heavily padded cradle slung in a car.

The "Peace Ship"

Proudly we salute this great ship. She rules as mistress of the ocean waves. She is a formidable contender with any and all foes of the Stars and Stripes. The men who ride her decks in the interest of our nation have reason to rejoice in her equipment and prowess. She represents America's military might. She is a "Peace Ship."

On the deck of the "Mighty Mo" an American General received the surrender of Japan... announced the end of World War II. He spoke words of lasting importance that day when he asked all nations of the earth to join in promoting peace. He stated that our chief preparation for the future must be a state of mind... a truer way of thinking of human beings under the rule of God. He called mankind to a better state of mind and urged us to consider the will of God for all.

The ship and military official became a new witness for peace. God's way of peace is taught in your church. His way is simple. It is the way of love. Let the "Mighty Mo" be an inspiration to united humanity, for a world of good will... may she be a

Main Points on Peace Proposals

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, 7 June 29 — (AP) — Here are some of the main points to keep in mind the talk about peace in Korea gets more complicated.

In November, 1943, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill met in Cairo with Chiang Kai-shek when the generalissimo still was big boss in China.

They agreed, when Japan was whipped, Formosa should be given back to China. The Japanese had taken it from her in the war with China in 1895. Later the Chinese Communists won control of China. Chiang and the remnants of his troops fled to Formosa. The Chinese Reds wanted the island. They claimed to be the only rightful government of China and the U. S. said they were entitled to it. This country hasn't recognized their government. And when they got into the Korean fighting, we threw a fleet around Formosa to Arkansas folks make get the answer first hand when the Eagles and the Rams tangle here in an exhibition in September. Game sponsors are thinking of arranging a match race between the two swift backs, providing they are winning.

keep the Communists from getting it.

And, although the Chinese Reds demanded a seat in the United Nations, on the same grounds that they were the rightful government of China, we opposed them there most vigorously after they got into Korea.

But in January, 1951, when the Chinese Communists were still winning in Korea, a plan was approved in the U. N. for ending the fighting. This plan, supported by the United States, proposed:

1. A cease-fire in Korea, with assurances it wouldn't be used as a screen for a new Chinese attack.

2. Once the cease-fire was agreed upon, it should be followed by talks on further steps for restoring peace in Korea.

3. Bit by bit—in phases the diplomats say—all foreign troops should be pulled out of Korea and, under U. N. supervision, the Korean people could vote on the kind of government they wanted.

4. Meanwhile, after the cease-fire was arranged, the U. N. would begin work to consider a number of problems, including Formosa and Red China's representation in the U. N.

The Chinese Communists rejected this, and offered their own plan. They refused to start peace talks with a cease-fire first. They demanded negotiations start on various problems before the shooting stopped at all. And they further demanded we remove our protection from Korea and that Red China be admitted to the U. N.

The United States rejected this. The fighting continued. The tide turned. Chinese spring offensives were smashed. They were driven north of the 38th parallel which separated North and South Korea.

The war had started when the North Korean Communists had driven down over that parallel to attack the South Koreans.

On June 2, when we were making progress, Secretary of State Acheson said the U. S. might agree to a "cease-fire" on the 38th parallel but would not agree—as part of the peace terms—to discuss the fate of Formosa or admit the Chinese Reds to the U. N. when the shooting is over, he said, these questions could be discussed. He proposed this four steps:

1. A cease-fire. (The two sides simply agree to stop shooting at a certain time and that's all. Nobody makes any promises about anything.)

2. Then an armistice. (This means the no-shooting agreement continues while arrangements are made for discussing the Korean problems.)

3. Settlement of the Korean questions. This, of course, would involve discussions between the U. N. on one side and the Chinese Communist and North Koreans on the other.

4. A bit-by-bit or phased withdrawal of all non-Koreans. On June 24 in New York, Jacob A. Malik, Soviet representative in the U. N., suggested there could be peace in Korea. As a first step, he said, there should be a cease-fire and then an armistice. (Note that he didn't suggest that the Chinese Communists had demanded as a first step last January: Negotiations before there was a cease-fire.)

Later in Moscow the Russians explained they thought the cease-fire could be arranged by the military commanders on both sides in the field in Korea and that other details could be worked out later.

That's where the situation stands now. If the Chinese Communists accept the plan suggested by Acheson on June 2 they've prevented a long way from the island they took last January.

WILLIAM M. DOCKETT

Mrs. Glen Lyn Williams

On Sunday, June 24 at four o'clock in the afternoon, the Presbyterian church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Marilyn Louise Bandy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Bandy and Glen Lyn Williams, son of Mrs. Glen L. Williams and the late Mr. Williams of Hope. The Reverend John L. Tucker, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

A large floor basket of white majestical daisies, stock and babybreath against a background of emerald fern and flanked by candelabra formed the central altar decoration.

Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Donald Knight, organist and Mrs. James E. Bean, vocalist of Atlanta, Georgia.

Miss Sue Ella Anderson of Little Rock and Miss Lemira Thomas were candle-lighters. They wore sky-blue organdy dresses over taffeta.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white organdy over satin having long sleeves ending in points over the hands and an Elizabethan collar. Organdy covered buttons extended down the back from the collar to the waistline. She wore a calotte of illusion with appliques of chantilly lace from which fell her veil of illusion. She carried a colonial couquet of Stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Joy Lynn Buckley of Pine Bluff was maid of honor. She wore a dress of navy organdy over light blue taffeta with bolero of navy lace. The bridesmaids, Miss Nanette Williams of Hope, sister of the groom and Miss Margaret Jean Ellis of Conway wore lightblue organdy over taffeta with lace boleros. All attendants carried bouquets of pinocchio roses and wore bandeaux of white net and roses.

Kinard young of Hope was best man and ushers were Fred Bandy of Crowley, Louisiana, brother of the bride and Charles Johnson of Little Rock.

The bride's mother wore a two piece dress of pink linen and lace with pink and black accessories and a corsage of pink vanda orchids. The groom's mother chose a blue and white sheer, black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents for relatives and out-of-town friends followed the wedding.

The bride's table was covered with a net cloth with a deep flounce over which fell festoons of plumosa fern. A large epergne with an arrangement of daisies and tapers completed the table decoration. Mixed bouquets of anemone and ornamental grass were used on the mantle in the living room and bouquets of magnolias were placed at points of vantage.

Those assisting in dispensing hospitalities were Miss Edna Earl Hall of San Antonio, Texas; Mrs. Hyder Schull, Mrs. G. L. Kimball, Mrs. Ched Hall, Mrs. Mack Stuart, Mrs. Hal Thompson, Miss Lemira Thomas, Mrs. Perry Moses, Mrs. Kelly Oliver, Mrs. J. T. Durham, Mrs. Gordon Mabry and Mrs. Paul F. Floyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast, after which they will be at home at 100 Louisiana-Arkansas highway, Park Hill, North Little Rock.

Sentiment Against Inquiry

Washington, June 28 — (AP) — Senator Russell (D-Ga.) today reported "surprising sentiment" against a senate committee making any formal report on its inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Russell, the committee chairman, said the sentiment appears to be increasing among members of the investigation panel—mainly, he indicated, because of apparent slim chances for achieving any unanimity on the issues.

The Georgia senator made the statement after winning bi-partisan approval in the committee of a statement telling Russia and the other Communist nations that—despite the bitter controversy over dismissal of MacArthur—American stands "united in readiness" to defend itself against any Red aggression.

The inquiry group, made up of the senate armed services and foreign relations committees, approved the statement of voice vote yesterday. Russell said there were no dissents from any of the members present at the closed meeting. He spoke of it as a unanimous action.

Russell had described the statement in advance as a warning to Russia against judging the hot court announced.

The five others who received jail sentences ranging from eight to 14 years are:

Dr. Paul Bozsk, a Catholic priest who was a member of the prewar parliament; 10 years.

Dr. Endre Farkas, a lawyer; Eight years.

Vendel Endredy, Clasterian abbot of Cirtz; 14 years.

Gyula Hingyo Kovacs, a member of the prewar upper house (senator); 13 years.

Istvan Carvlar, general of the Paulician order; 10 years.

Veeer, the prior who was sentenced to death, had confessed he organized a group of priests which killed 30 Soviet army soldiers. All the other defendants had pleaded guilty to the charges against them. The trial started last Friday and ended Tuesday with a demand from the prosecutor, Gyula Alapi, for the "severest punishment," meaning the death sentence. He is the man who prosecuted Cardinal Mindszenty before the same judge, Vilmos Ott.

The defendants admitted leadership and participating in an organization aimed at overthrowing the state, dealing in black market currency, aiding people to escape from Hungary, spying, hiding firearms, forging public documents and murder.

Two dozen prosecution witnesses — 23 of whom also were arrested — testified against the defendants and the other defendants and eagerly admitted their own subversive activities as minor players in the conspiracy attributed to the chief prisoners. Their testimony had been remarkably similar to that of the main defendants.

Hungarians Sentence Archbishop

Budapest, Hungary, June 28 — (AP) — Roman Catholic Archbishop Jozsef Groesz was convicted today of plotting to overthrow the Communist government of Hungary and was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

One of the other eight defendants tried with the archbishop was sentenced to death. He is Ferenc Veeer, a Paulician monk, who confessed in court that he killed a Russian soldier.

Five others received jail sentences ranging from eight to 14 years.

The archbishop, Hungary's highest ranking Catholic church dignitary since Cardinal Mindszenty was sent to prison for life in a similar trial in 1949, had confessed publicly in court to illegal activities.

No sentences were announced in the cases of two other defendants — Dr. Elajos Pongracz, a Hungarian national who had been employed by the U. S. legation, and Dr. Ladzio zheuev. Pongracz will be tried again by a military court, and the case of Hevay was "separated" from the others, the dispute over ending of MacArthur as a sign of U. S. divisions and weakness.

A reaction of the statement, addressed to the Communist world, declared the "cold war" with the world has no reason for being. Neither the U. S. nor the Communist world be deceived by the "surprising" review given our global strategy." It added:

"If those who threaten to take only a cynical lesson from differences among free men and nations take the temper of our people, they can plunge the world into war. But it would be a war they could never win and which would bring them to ultimate destruction."

Openly pleased by approval of the statement by Republican as well as Democratic members of the committee, Russell told reporters the group will meet in 10 days or so to decide (1) whether to call any more witnesses, and (2) what to do about a formal report, or reports.

In the Fourth and Fifth Centuries the title "pope" was frequently used for bishops, but gradually became reserved for the Bishop of Rome.

A Scotman was stripping wall paper from the walls when a friend arrived.

"Well, McTish," said the visitor, "are you going to have new paper?"

"Na," mumbled McTish, "I'm just moving to another house."

Marshall May

When Mr. Truman called on the 70-year-old Marshall to succeed Louis Johnson as defense secretary, Marshall was just making his second attempt to retire from active public life.

Marshall was just making his second attempt to retire from active public life. He had retired in 1945 from active army duty as a five star general, only to be called back by Mr. Truman to serve as secretary of state. Then, after becoming ill and undergoing long hospitalization, Marshall resigned the state department post and went to his Leesburgh, Va., home again to start retirement.

Margaret Is Visiting Pope

Vatican City, June 28 — (AP) — Margaret Truman visited Pope Pius XII today.

The president's daughter was somberly gowned and veiled in black as she walked through the ancient and splendid halls of Vatican palace. Accompanying her was Msgr. Martin John O'Connor, titular bishop of Tescpie and rector of the North American college in Rome.

Swiss guards in brilliant costumes designed by Michelangelo, stood at attention and presented their ancient halberds as Margaret stepped into Clementine hall, the first of the lofty chambers she traversed en route to the pope's private library where she was received.

She talked with the pope for twenty minutes.

Miss Truman was met in the Vatican's St. Damasus courtyard by Msgr. Joseph McGeough and the Rev. John J. Ryan, who are members of the division of the Vatican's secretariat.

The party ascended a spiral staircase to the pope's study in the Vatican's St. Damasus courtyard.

Ships Collide But Nobody Is Injured

Seattle, June 28 — (AP) — An oil tanker bound up coast from California and a Greek freighter collided in heavy fog off the Oregon coast late last night. The coast guard reported early today both vessels apparently escaped serious damage.

The vessels were the SS Audrey of Greek registry, and the SS Alan Seeger, identified by the coast guard as a Time Oil Co. tanker.

The Seeger was enroute from California to Portland, Ore. and the Audrey was enroute from Vancouver, Wash. to Egypt.

Both vessels reported to the coast guard at midnight, Pacific daylight time, that they were in no immediate danger. The Audrey was proceeding toward Coos Bay, Ore., where a coast guard vessel was waiting with a pilot to meet her.

The coast guard reported at 3:30 a.m. that the Alan Seeger had discharged fuel oil to lighten its load and was heading towards the mouth of the Columbia river at five knots. The report estimated it would arrive there late this afternoon.

The Seeger radiocast she had no casualties but was damaged forward and the anchor was unusable.

The coast guard said the Greek freighter was damaged both forward and left side aft and had lost both anchors. No casualties were reported.

Visibility was about 100 feet. Seattle coast guard officers reported because of the heavy fog blanketing the coastal region.

No further information was available, officials reported, and it was not known whether any persons aboard the vessels were injured.

The Audrey, proceeding at half speed, was expected to reach Coos Bay at approximately 2 a.m.

Senex Managers Smith, I hear that at the company party you were intoxicated and pushed a wheel barrow around the room.

"Yes, but I thought you approved."

"No indeed. Why should I? You were riding in the wheel barrow."

Ayrel Duzan's 1950 Ford F-1 Pickup with POWER PILOT was one of more than 5000 Fords in the nationwide Ford Truck Economy Run. Entrants travelled a total of 50 million miles and represented every type of hauling job.

"I haul feed, grain, pigs — for 2¼¢ a mile!"

My Ford Truck with the Power Pilot has helped me keep down my running costs," says Ayrel Duzan.

During the six months of the Ford Truck Economy Run, I drove my Ford Pickup 6,882 miles, usually with one or two loads. The daily expense records show that gas, oil, maintenance and repairs cost a total of $15.42. That's a running cost per mile of only 2.24 cents! Naturally, I won a prize from my Ford Dealer during the Run.

The Ford Truck POWER PILOT gives you the most power from the least gas... saves you money every mile!

The buying trend is to FORD Trucks! 1950 vs. 1949 registration figures show Ford Truck sales gain is over six times greater than all other makes combined!
